"Fighting Father Magrath," Pastor of Parish on New York's Water Front, is Finding No Difficulty in Handling With Success One of the Great City's Toughest Districts

By CARLTON TEN KYCK
(Written for the United Press) NEW YORK, May 5.—When craving for diversion of a static character it behooves the visitor to this poly-got city to drop down to West street, where the docks of the great steamship lines are strung, and get acquainted with Rev. Phillip J. Magrath, the "Fighting Father" of the water front.
If in the mood—and he is always in the mood to do battle for the cause of honesty, justice and decency—Father Magrath may permit you to trot around his "parish" with him.
If this rare treat befalls you and you come through alive, you will have seen something to tell the folks back home.

Hardly a night passes that the rubicund, genial and kindly-eyed priest does not find it necessary, or at least congenial, to supplement his religious instructions with a wallop to the jaw of some seven-foot stevedore or water-front crook. His wallop, by the way, contains the soporific power of a ton of chloroform. The recipient has the feeling—on awaking—of having been slapped by an elephant.
Not that Father Magrath goes about looking for trouble—far be it from such. "I'm a peaceful man of the church," he will tell you solemnly, "and I detest having any trouble. But once in a while it is necessary to point out the right path with the fist instead of with some beautiful language which won't be understood." Father Magrath also insists that he is humane in his method of visiting the wrath of Providence on his recalcitrant parishioners. "I hate to hurt them," he said, "so I always try to wind up any argument with one punch. Usually I make my man understand the blessedness of the faith and the advantages of decent living with one right hook to the jaw."

Father Magrath is in charge of St.
Peter's Union for Seamen. Although Section 22, Township 27 S., Range 9 E., Willamette Meridian, has filed notice of intention to make final three-year proof, to establish claim to the land above described, before C. R.
De Lap, county clerk, at Klamath Falls, Oregon, on the 14th day of June, 1913.

Claimant names as witnesses:
John E. Janssen, Charles Linzi, Bert Stiles, John Neubert, all of

Notice of Settlement of Final Account of Administrator

Notice is hereby given that John H.
Smart, administrator of the estate of Lucy Loosely, deceased, has rendered and presented to the court and filed with the clerk thereof, his report and final account of his administration of said estate, together with his petition for final distribution of the personal property belonging thereto; and that Friday, the 30th day of May, A. D.
1913, at 10 o'clock a. m., and in the court room of the county court of Klamath county, state of Oregon, in the county court house at Klamath Falls, in said county, have been appointed by the court as the time and place for a hearing of said petition, report and final account and the settlement of said account; at which time and place any person interested in said estate may appear and file exceptions to the said account and contest the same.
Dated this 24th day of April, A. D.
1913.
JOHN H. SMART, Administrator of the Estate of Lucy Loosely, Deceased.

he is a Catholic, his Union is non-sectarian. It is more like a club than a mission. Downstairs the seamen and longshoremen gather around checker boards and innocent card tables, and upstairs they receive the benefit of services conducted by their pugnacious parson. And woe to any unruly backslider who attempts that former favorite pastime of the water-front—putting the meeting "on the bum." When Father Magrath first went to West street there was no tougher section of the city, and few as hardened and wholly wicked in the world. The "rough necks" who came ashore to squander their earnings of two trans-Atlantic voyages or the fruits of months of service on tramp steamers in a night were bad enough, but it was the swarm of crooks and gamblers who gathered to entice the unhappy mariner into crooked deals of all sorts that made the district notorious for murder and assault.

The advent of Father Magrath, the smiling, big-jawed, young priest, caused but little excitement at first. No one attended his meetings, nor was his cloth respected as it should have been. Father Magrath looked around his "parish" silently for a few weeks and then decided that the only way to make these water front gangs step around to be converted was by force.
So one night he started out to "clean up" his district, alone and unarmed.
He still on the street of that glorious first night of battle and gory fistic display. He went from saloon to saloon, sorting out the biggest and worst looking men at the bar, and urging upon them the error of their ways and the advantages of the life religious. When scoffed at he laid down his prayer books and rolled up his sleeves. There were usually just two blows struck. One was when the doughty priest's doughty fist landed on the jaw of said offender. The other was the echoing wallop when said offender's cranium collided with the floor.

Then Father Magrath went about a systematic circuit of the crooks which led through dark alley ways where the human sharks waited to pounce upon one of his beloved seamen when that jovial rover of the deep should be wallowing in the trough of too deep a land sea. The police had made sporadic but futile efforts to clean out the nest of thieves and tin-horn gamblers, thugs and lodging house crooks that filled the water front district.
Father Magrath simply waded into a crook whenever he saw one, and ordered him to get out of the district, and if not met with instant response sank one of his justly famous private stock sleeping potions into said crook's masticatory apparatus.

The result is that today only one gang of unregenerates worries the good, stock priest of the Seamen's Union: It is known as the Tin Can Alley Athletic Club. Its athletics are confined to whatever calisthenic exercises are necessary to the hoisting of copious "slugs" of liquor to the lips, the blackjacking of drunken sailors and a brisk departure when pursued by the police—or Father Magrath. These athletes are descended from the Pig Alley Guards, a similar organization completely routed and disbanded by the almost single-handed operations of the "Fighting Priest." They had other affiliations with the Hudson Dusters, an aggregation of humorously inclined young hoodlum-bands, whose favorite pastime was the "beating up" of policemen—when the latter weren't working in pairs. Father Magrath licked seven Hudson Dusters in quick succession and the rest "dusted."

Father Magrath is a product of the East Side. He knows well the wants of "his people," and he is now beloved by every seaman of New York's "Barbary Coast." Father Magrath's constant companion is "Sam," a rangy, mongrel dog. Between them they are literally "licking hell" out of West street.

Closing Saloons
a Hard Task

John A. Chamberlain of Cleveland, lawyer and head of the Baptist Brotherhood, which is trying to close the saloons on Sunday, now has the sight of his life.

"I never knew before I got into this how bad a man wants a drink when he wants it, nor how anxious the saloon man is to sell it to him," remarked the leader of the brotherhood, when he found the saloon man had tried a ruse of which he had not thought.

Mr. Chamberlain believed he had the lid fastened down on Sunday in the city which, till a short time ago, had a Golden Rule chief of police.
Suddenly he discovered that the saloon men had given all their customers keys to their places. The locksmiths of the city were working day and night to turn them out. The printers, who had to get out fancy cards of "membership" also worked overtime.

The head of the Baptist Brotherhood does not believe the saloon men have found a successful method of keeping open on Sunday, and he is digging into the law to find one to overcome them.

INDIANS TO SOW
LOTS OF GRAIN

HUNDRED TONS OF WHEAT AND BARLEY DISTRIBUTED
AMONG THE INDIANS BY THE GOVERNMENT

(Special Correspondence)

KLAMATH AGENCY, May 5.—The Indian service has just finished the work of distributing 100,000 pounds of seed oats and an equal amount of barley to Indian farmers. The grain is given gratis by the government, but must be reimbursed at harvest time unless the crops are poor.

Last fall the government purchased a threshing outfit, and will be prepared to thresh all of the grain produced this year by the Indians.

HOLDS UP WORK

WHITE LABOR, INSTEAD OF IN-DIAN HELP, WILL BE USED LARGELY ON MODOC POINT
PROJECT NOW

(Special Correspondence)

CHILQUIN, May 5.—Work on the Modoc Point irrigation project, to irrigate about 3,600 acres of land on Modoc Flat, is being greatly delayed on account of the inability of the engineer in charge to secure laborers.

It was the original intention of the government to employ some 500 Indian labor on this project, but so much difficulty in being experienced in hiring Indians who will work steady-ly that white labor is in great demand.

The Indian ranks were greatly depleted last Sunday when as the result of a general fight caused by the importation of whiskey by an Indian and a Mexican, the project engineer, H. W. Hincks, discharged nearly a dozen Indians who had taken a part in the fracas. None of the Indians were seriously injured, but several were taken to the hospital, which, according to witnesses, waged a steady fight for a short time.

Finally Indian police summoned from the Agency put a stop to the fight and lodged several of the constantly in the Agency jail. Most of the fighters escaped to the woods, but all the week they were one by one surrendering to the officers. The ones who it is alleged imported the liquor were taken to Klamath Falls and thence to Portland for a hearing before the federal grand jury.

They are now down to the minute for class. Hand-painted French enamel handy pins.
